Mississippi Southern College is a good place to go to school. A friendly administration, a good faculty, a splendid student body and a lovely campus have won for the institution a high place in the affections of those who know it. It isn't expensive either. The present cost to students for room, board and laundry is $115.00 per quarter. For students who stay at home the cost is $40.00 per quarter.

The auditorium is the scene of public assemblies. The regular Monday morning chapel services are inspiring and informative. The excellent programs given by the faculty and students are enriched by distinguished visitors who bring the very best from the fields they represent. Vesper services on Sunday and Wednesday evenings, musicals on Sunday afternoons, the annual presentation of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," and an unusually worthwhile artists series under the sponsorship of the Hattiesburg Concert Association are presented in this impressive building. This is the home and the birthplace of the Vesper Choir, South Mississippi's best known musical organization.

The Joe Cook Memorial Library is one of the busiest spots on the campus. Here students have access to a large collection of reference books, and periodicals. The airy and spacious reading rooms make study or browsing a genuine pleasure. A trained and courteous staff under the supervision of Miss Anna Roberts, Librarian, is ready to serve at all times.

Every visitor to Mississippi Southern College is impressed by the tasty and complete meals served in the college Dining Hall. Miss Joicie Smith, dietitian, through many years of capable service has established a reputation for good food that is one of the most cherished traditions of the college. The restrictions necessary to the successful prosecution of the war effort have affected the dining hall but an abundance of good wholesome food is always ready for the hungry collegians.

THE primary business of the college is to provide worthwhile training for the students. A capable faculty, trained in the foremost universities of the world and with long years of experience provides excellent instruction. Adequate laboratories and good classroom equipment insure the most profitable use of time. The Vocational Home Economics Department is particularly proud of the nursery school. Every graduate of the college has been called upon to fill a responsible post in some community of the state. The demand for trained people is greater today than it has ever been. Mississippi Southern College is doing its part in fitting capable young citizens for the heavier responsibilities of tomorrow.

THERE is never a dull moment at Mississippi Southern. The ten minute interval between classs provides an opportunity for a friendly word at Wimpy's or on the campus. Golfing, archery, swimming and dancing are a few of the recreational activities sponsored and supervised by the college to insure the well-rounded development of every individual. Emphasis upon a physical recreation program is designed to assure the complete development of the physical body. The formal receptions at the President's home, the Christian Federation Parties, the Sorority and Fraternity Socials, and other activities of a similar nature make a lasting contribution to the life of every student.
